

To run away from broken heart

---

It's OK to have a broken heart. In my thinking everyone should have such experience at least once or twice in a lifetime.

So, you can't breathe the same air with person who broke your heart, you can't share the same city with him or her. All you want to do is just run away as far as you can.

Proverb " Out of sight-out of mind" suits for this situation perfectly.