

To broaden your experience of the world

It's a real reason for people who want to see the world, to see how do the other people live. Or even find a better place for themselves.

