The First World War was the first world-wide military conflict including 38 independent states.

It was one of the deadliest conflicts in history and provoked serious political changes.