

INSIGHT #3

A good way to think of a product is that it is a representation of the genius of the people who created it. A great team can create a great product. A mediocre team will always create a mediocre product.