

The start-up team needs to have the leadership, market and operational skills necessary to execute the plan. They're different than management teams in that: