

A close-up photograph of a person's hand using a hand plane to smooth a bright red, polished surface. The hand is positioned on the left, holding the handle of the plane. The plane's blade is in contact with the red surface, creating a fine line of dust or shavings. In the background, various tools like a hammer and a saw are visible on a workbench. A green text box with white text is overlaid on the right side of the image. The background is slightly blurred, showing a workshop environment with a bright light source on the left.

Every entrepreneur would attest that starting a business is not as glamorous as others
would think it to be.