

Conclusion

- Environmental science helps us understand our relationship with the environment and informs our attempts to solve and prevent problems.
- Solving environmental problems can move us towards health, longevity, peace and prosperity
- Environmental science can help us find balanced solutions to environmental problems

