

Disadvantages of Project Financing

- Often takes longer to structure than equivalent size corporate finance.
- Higher transaction costs (~60bp) due to creation of an independent entity.
- Project debt is substantially more expensive (50-400 bp) due to its non-recourse nature.
- Extensive contracting restricts managerial decision making.
- Project finance requires greater disclosure of proprietary information and strategic deals.