

Acids and Bases

- An acid can be defined as a proton donor, a chemical that increases the concentration of hydrogen ions in solution.
- A base can be defined as a proton acceptor, a chemical that reduces the concentration of hydrogen ions in solution.