

An aerial photograph of a historic Russian city, likely Suzdal, featuring a prominent red brick fortress with multiple towers and a surrounding wall. The city is nestled on a hillside, with a river visible on the left. The background shows a modern cityscape with various buildings and greenery.

Исторические города России и их использование в современном туризме