

This photo is taken in Catandica Hospital, Monica Province. It illustrates the difficulty that health care providers face in storing and retrieving vital health information and underscores the need to move towards electronic systems.