

10. Explore various industries

"I would have loved to have different opportunities while I was growing up, like being able to do an internship, do some marketing, do a little bit of sales to be able to understand the areas a little better instead of having to wait so long.

Having experience at a younger age would have changed my perspective a lot more and would have made me more comfortable as I moved into the workforce."