

A close-up photograph of a pug dog sitting outdoors on grass. The dog is wearing a light-colored, possibly yellow or cream, hooded garment. The hood is pulled up over its head, and the top part of the hood is designed to look like a second pug's head, complete with large, round, orange-brown eyes and a black snout. The dog's actual face is visible through the opening of the hood, showing its characteristic wrinkled skin, dark eyes, and black snout. A small, light-colored tag is visible on a collar around its neck. The background consists of a wooden fence and green grass.

Fido interrupting your sales pitch...