

Theories

Monism (Kelsen)

- Nat. law and int. law as one unitary, coherent system
- Int. law at top of pyramid, (in)validating acts of domestic legal systems
- In case of conflict, int. law prevails • No need for 'transformation' of int. law into domestic law
- No strict distinction between subjects of nat. and int. law; role of individuals

